Property Owners Object To Newcombe's Project

Gas Corporation Wants to Enlarge Present Gas Station at Broadway and Delaware Avenue—City Judge Shufeldt Asks B. P. W. to Adopt Taxistand Ordinance—Many Matters Before Board at Busy Session.

Objection of property owners to the plan of the Newcombe Oil Corporation to enlarge its present gas station at Broadway and Delaware avenue, City Judge Augustus Shufeldt's suggestion that a taxi stand ordinance be adopted, and several applications to erect new buildings were some of the matters considered at the regular monthly meeting of the board of public works held Tuesday evening at the city hall. Mayor Morris Block presided with Commissioners Chandler, Fessenden, Van Etten and Rafferty present.

The Newcombe Project.

A petition was received from property owners in the vicinity of the drive-in gas station of the Newcombe Oil Corporation at the intersection of Broadway and Delaware avenue, requesting the board to refuse permission to the corporation to enlarge the present gas station which is now operating twenty-four hours a day, and that the enlargement of the station would depreciate the value of property in its vicinity.

Duty Explained Plan.

Lucius H. Doty, vice president of the corporation, was present and given the privilege of the floor. He stated with the board plans for the proposed enlargement which he said would be an improvement to the property. It was planned to tear down the present residence property in the rear of the gas station and also to erect a larger and more modern gas station, which would add greatly to the appearance of the property.

To Widen the Corner.

Mr. Doty said the corporation planned to deed about twenty feet of the corner to the city so that the corner, which is now a sharp one, could be widened, making the corner almost square. The present house on the property would be removed to another site and it was planned to erect a handsome brick and steel building on the site which would be used for rest rooms and a restaurant.

Mr. Doty said that the corporation would file a formal request to enlarge the present station with the board in time for the next meeting.

Laid on Table.

The petition objecting to the proposed enlargement of the station and also the plan submitted by Mr. Doty were both laid on the table until a formal application is made by the Newcombe Corporation, when the board would take the matter up for action.

Judge Shufeldt's Suggestion.

City Judge Augustus Shufeldt appeared before the board and said he had talked with Chief of Police J. Allan Wood and was of the opinion that the board should adopt a taxi stand ordinance. He believed that there should be an ordinance covering taxistands in the city.

The board directed Corporation Counsel James Jenkins to confer with the chief of police and draw up a proposed ordinance and submit it at the next meeting of the board.

Planning for Winter's Snow.

Commissioner Chandler said that he believed the board should make plans for the clearing of the city streets of the coming winter's snows, and moved that Superintendent Van Keuren prepare a list of what was needed in the line of machinery and submit it to the next meeting of the board. Commissioner Chandler said he favored the purchase of a ten-ton tractor to open the streets. His motion that Superintendent Van Keuren report at the next meeting was adopted.

The Canine Memorial.

The chairman of the committee on parks drew the attention of the board to the public drinking fountain recently placed in Academy Park. This fountain, so convenient and so practical, is the gift of Mrs. Charles F. Canine, who was also the donor of the children's pool. It would seem that Kingston people should know the giver of these splendid acquisitions to the park, and that the board of public works should express their appreciation of the public spirit which prompted Mrs. Canine to make these gifts to the city. Both the pool and the drinking fountain are in the nature of a memorial to the late Judge Charles F. Canine, whose residence stood on Academy Park. It was moved by Dr. Chandler that the board of public works recognize the generosity of Mrs. Canine. The board also adopted a resolution thanking Mrs. Canine for the gifts.

A Road Building Job.

Superintendent W. Scott Van Keuren submitted a report of the work accomplished by the street force during the past month and attention was called to the work of rebuilding part of Locust avenue which had been carried away by the big daybreak some time ago. In order to fill in it has been necessary to blast into the side of the cliff around which the road ran, and the job was a difficult one. It was stated it was a job similar, although on a smaller scale, to the construction of the Storm King highway. The fill was about half completed and good progress was being made.

Lounsbury Place Sewer.

An ordinance for the construction of a sewer in Lounsbury Place was submitted by City Engineer Hallinan and approved. The total cost of the sewer was estimated at $541.60, of which the city pays twenty-five per cent and the property owners the other seventy-five per cent of the cost.

A Washington Avenue Sewer.

A petition was received from property owners on Washington avenue, between Main and Janet streets, asking that a sewer be built in that section of the street. There had never been a sewer in that portion of Washington avenue and householders had been forced to build lines connecting with the Main street sewer. The petition was referred to the city engineer to prepare an ordinance for the construction of the sewer.

Lucas Avenue Sewer.

The board also received a petition for the construction of a sewer from the present sewer on Lucas avenue out that avenue to the city line. It was referred to the city engineer to draw an ordinance.

To Remove Trolley Frog.

Alderman DeGarmo of the First ward appeared before the board in regard to the removal of the frog of the trolley road at St. James street and Clinton avenue, where the abandoned Colonial line crossed the Kingston City trolley tracks. Superintendent Van Keuren was directed to proceed with the work of removing the frog.

Other Matters.

Attorney Frank W. Brooks, in behalf of Charles Myer, proprietor of the City Hotel on Main street, wrote regarding parking in front of the hotel and asked the board to have the time for parking of cars limited. The communication was filed.

Alderman George J. Sharkey of the Twelfth ward wrote regarding the placing of an electric light in front of the residence of Lawrence Walsh on Fairview avenue. Mr. Walsh had paid for the extension of an electric line to his property from Main street, and desired an electric street light placed on a pole in front of his house. It was referred to the lighting committee.

Grade on Emerson Street.

A. Peterson of 31 Janet street wrote that he had three lots on Emerson street, between Lucas avenue and Main street, and desired to have the grade established so he could lay walks and gutters.

City Engineer Hallinan stated that a grade had never been established by ordinance on that street and the board directed him to prepare one establishing the grade.

Petition for New Buildings.

An application was received from Casper Principi for permission to erect a store and dwelling at the corner of Deyo street and Tietjen avenue. Alderman George W. Moore of the Third ward appeared before the board and asked that the petition be granted. After some discussion the board denied the application but will file with the zoning board of appeals a recommendation that it be granted. The board's denial of the application was on the ground that it had no authority to grant permission to erect a store in a residential section under the zoning law.

An application from Walter Harbeck for permission to erect a two-story frame house and drive-in was also denied on the ground that the board had no authority.

Want Store Signs.

W. S. Harshorn applied for permission to erect an electric sign at the corner of Wurts and McIntee streets, which was referred to Superintendent Van Keuren with power. The same action was taken in the application of Van Keuren Brothers, plumbers, to erect a sign in front of their store at 7 West Street.

Billie and Claims were read and the board considered several routine matters and then adjourned.

CASTER HAD HAND INJURED AT APPALO MAGNETO PLANT

George S. Caster of 2 Crown street had his hand badly lacerated in some machinery at the Appalo Magnet plant on Tuesday. One of his fingers was cut off by the machine. He was taken to the Kingston City Hospital where Dr. A. A.

Many Aliens Enter U. S. from Canada

Immigration Commissioner Finds That Present Force Is Inadequate to Cope With Situation.

Washington, Sept. 1 (AP).—Present immigration forces, although doing all they can to enforce the law, are inadequate to cope with conditions along the Canadian border, where thousands of aliens are seeking to gain access illegally to the United States, Harry E. Hull, commissioner general of immigration, declared on his return from an inspection trip.

In addition to keeping out aliens seeking entry by illegal methods, he said, immigration officers on the northern border are faced with the daily task of examining 100,000 aliens seeking admission through regular channels.

"The task," he asserted, "is an enormous one, and for its successful accomplishment no expenditure of funds or personnel should be spared." Practically the entire length of the Canadian boundary was found to be lined with aliens ready to take advantage of an unpatrolled stretch to slip into American territory, the commissioner said, adding that there was no doubt that many organized smuggling gangs were operating.

Aliens have been apprehended, he reported, crawling over the under bridges of the Niagara Falls bridge, where confederates had been posted on both ends to aid them in scaling the cliffs. Others, he said, go on foot for weeks to find some point on the border not adequately guarded, or resort to matrimony to avoid the quota restrictions.

Nations Act on U. S. Reservations

Geneva, Sept. 1 (AP).—The first three of the five reservations specified by the United States senate as necessary conditions for American adherence to the permanent court of international justice were approved in quick order at the first session today of representatives of states members of the court.

Opposition unexpectedly developed to that part of the fourth reservation declaring that the statutes of the court shall not be amended without the consent of the United States. Adjournment until afternoon came before debate on this section was completed.

The objections to reservation number four were voiced by Sir George Foster of Canada, supported by the Jugo-Slavian delegate, M. Markovic. Sir George held that the reservation would prevent members of the league from ever amending the court statutes without American permission, regardless of the fact that they might deem the amendment necessary.

The fifth reservation, on which action is yet to be taken, is expected to cause the most objection. It provides that the court shall not, without American consent, entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has, or claims, an interest.

County Students Get Scholarships

Three Graduates of Kingston High School Among Those Awarded $100 a Year for Four Years by State Department of Education.

Three graduates of Kingston High School, Constance Blawie, Elton Schroeder, and Anna D. Schoonmaker, have been granted scholarships by the State Department of Education as were Della Brown and Evelyn Sheeley, graduates of Walden and Ellenville schools, respectively.

The holders of these scholarships are entitled to $100 a year for the four years of their college course while attending any institution in the state of New York, approved by the Regents for the purpose.

The State Department of Education issues scholarships every year to the graduates of the high schools of this state who have attained the highest averages and college entrance diplomas. If the pupils having the highest grades decline the money is given to the next highest in order on the list. Five times as many scholarships are given as there are assembly districts in each county.

Frank Schermerhorn of Cedar Street, was arrested Tuesday night by his mother on a charge of disorderly conduct, and spent the night in the county jail. This morning in police court before Judge Shufeldt the mother stated she wished to withdraw the charge and the son was discharged.

Eight Are Killed And Many Injured In Azores 'Quake

Reports Vary As to Casualties—Hundreds of Homes Razed—Suffering and Damage Are Beyond Description.

Lisbon, Portugal, Sept. 1 (AP).—Eight persons were killed and 200 injured by yesterday's earthquake on the island of Fayal in the Azores, the governor of the Horta district reported in a message today. Four hundred houses were razed in the village of Flamengas by a series of short shocks.

The telegraph station of the Portuguese submarine base at Fayal was damaged by the quake, and communication was interrupted for an hour.

Many Shocks Since 1925.

Natives of the Azores seeking news of their families at the government offices in Lisbon said today that since the last big shock in Fayal, in May, 1925, more than 100 earth movements have been felt there, and that many people habitually sleep outdoors in fear of catastrophes.

Most of the houses in Horta had cracked walls, and it is believed these collapsed in the present "quake."

Population Living Outdoors.

Lisbon, Sept. 1 (AP).—The population of the island of Fayal, in the Azores Islands, lying 800 miles off the coast of Portugal is living outdoors, terror-stricken after yesterday's disastrous earthquake.

In Horta, the chief city of Fayal, which was largely destroyed, most of the 8,000 citizens spent the night in the public squares. Large cracks have appeared in the streets, and the people were afraid to return to their homes in the fear of renewed shocks.

Portuguese Are Rushing Relief

It has been impossible to learn the exact number of casualties, which are estimated at from 50 to 400 of the island's 25,000 population. The Portuguese government, to which the islands belong, is rushing a relief expedition to the Azores.

Island "Mass of Ruins."

From advices thus far received by way of Lisbon the island of Fayal is declared to be "a mass of ruins," especially the city of Horta.

This information was sent by the mayor of Horta. He estimated the injured at 400 but made no mention of fatalities. Lloyds, however, reports that ten persons are known to have been killed in Horta.

The first shock was felt at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning. It was followed by a series of other shocks, some of them of a minor nature.

Catastrophe Beyond Description.

The message sent by the mayor of Horta to the authorities in Lisbon said the aspect of Fayal island and the suffering of the victims were terrible to witness. The catastrophe was beyond description.

Telegraphic communications with the islands was badly hampered by the disturbance and only meager information was obtainable in Lisbon, where during the afternoon and evening the Central Telegraph offices were thronged with persons having relatives or friends in the archipelago. Although the Azores, which are of volcanic origin, frequently have been shaken by quakes, the latest phenomenon is said to have been the worst ever experienced.

Greece Also Has 'Quake'

Greece also was shaken by a strong earthquake yesterday, but it is said the damage was not great and that no casualties had been reported.

KINGSTON RESIDENT ANXIOUS ABOUT NOISES OVERHEAD

In the column of questions and answers which Dr. S. Parkes Cadman conducts daily in The New York Herald-Tribune the following question and answer appeared:

For some nights past there have been distinct knockings in the room overhead and we cannot trace the cause. We live in the country, on our own acreage, rather lonely, and at nightfall get a bit fearful. It is silly, I know, and yet there is the problem: Lots of knocks and nobody to do the knocking.

Much depends on the kind of knocking you hear. Your letter does not describe it. I myself once heard eerie knocks overhead in a country house, but my host laughed when I listened curiously. "That's Jimmy," he said. "He's our squirrel!"

There may also be some equally natural explanation in your own case. Of course, occultists believe in unseen agencies called poltergeists, mischievous and noisy spirits, if you like, whose business it is to annoy and startle me. I have no reason to believe that such beings exist. In spite of much circumstantial evidence no case carries complete conviction. The psychic researchers never seem to find the noisy poltergeist, but they do frequently discover mischievous spirits in human form. Is your knocker a squirrel or a practical joker?

LARK KATRINE MAN WED ON LIQUOR CHARGE

New York, Sept. 1, (Special).—Lillian Antonio of Saverio Road, Lake Katrine, N. Y., was held in $500 bail today for the grand jury when she came up before U. S. Commissioner Garrett Coffey in federal court. Antonio is charged with conspiracy to violate the national prohibition laws by procuring liquor illegally.

Boston Has Real Political Fight

Two Seriously Injured and Three Others Badly Hurt in Fight Which Centered Around a Candidate for Representative.

Boston, Sept. 1 (AP).—Two men were fighting for life and three others lie badly injured in the city hospital today as a result of a political feud which boiled over at a campaign rally in East Boston last night.

James Coffey, a candidate for representative, who nightly assails "the gang" in his territory as "bums, dope peddlers and bootleggers," was assaulted by two men as he stood chatting with friends.

His assailants leaped from an automobile and one clubbed him with a sawed-off shotgun. Patrolman James McPhee, standing nearby in plain clothes, came to his assistance and was stabbed in the stomach by the second attacker.

The knife wielder fled, pursued by a large crowd, while the first assailant and the driver of their car escaped. Twice the fugitive held the crowd at bay with his knife before police reserves overpowered him and took him to the city hospital with a broken jaw. He was booked under the name of Tony Rosa for assault with a dangerous weapon.

The McPhees went on the operating table soon after arrival at the hospital and the condition of both was regarded as extremely critical today. Gaudreau also was held at the hospital. Coffey went home after treatment for his bruised head.

K. of C. Don't Want U. S. to Intervene

James A. Flaherty Tells President Coolidge What Position of Catholic Order Is.

Paul Smith's, N. Y., Sept. 1 (AP).—President Coolidge was told today by James A. Flaherty, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, that that order does not ask intervention by the United States in Mexico.

The order, said Mr. Flaherty, who was accompanied by members of his supreme council, does not even ask the lifting of the embargo on arms shipments to Mexico. Instead, he made clear, it desires only the exercise of whatever good offices the United States can extend under international law to ameliorate conditions in the southern republic where Catholic churches are engaged in a religious dispute with President Calles.

Conditions in Mexico at this time were ascribed by Mr. Flaherty to policies of the past three American administrations. Mr. Coolidge, who has pursued a policy of "hands off" in the religious controversy, was said to have listened kindly and patiently to the delegation, who were later photographed with him at the executive offices.

Coolidge Backer Wins in California

Senator Shortridge, Opposed by Senator Hiram Johnson, Leads Clarke by 30,000 Votes.

San Francisco, Sept. 1 (AP).—United States Senator Samuel M. Shortridge, Coolidge Republican running for renomination and Lieutenant Governor C. C. Young, contesting for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, increased their leads over their opponents as additional precincts were tabulated today from yesterday's primary.

Shortridge had more than doubled his advantage over Robert M. Clarke, his leading anti-Coolidge opponent, on return from 7,000 precincts which gave Shortridge 119,542; Clarke 86,537. Lieutenant Governor Young had 125,372; Goodell 124,746; McCallan 124,922; Mitchell 122,555 and Thomas 219.

In spite of the growing vote of their opponent, both Hiram Johnson and Clarke refused to admit defeat.

Troops Will Try To Quell Rioters

Nine Injured in Riot Tuesday Night Between Textile Strikers and State Police at Manville, Rhode Island.

Manville, R. I., Sept. 1 (AP).—National guard troops rallied today to quell rioting which culminated last night in injury to nine persons during a clash between state police and an infuriated mob of 1,800 striking operatives of the Manville Jencks Company textile mills.

Thirty-five men of the 103rd Field Artillery, accompanied by ambulance and medical corps detachments, reached the mill soon after midnight, ready to throw out picket lines at daybreak in support of 14 state police officers and a force of deputy sheriffs who have guarded the plant since trouble broke out with the arrival of strike breakers Sunday.

After a night and a day of disorders, during which an attempt was made to fire the mill, the trouble reached a peak last night when strikers gathered at the head of the Blackstone River bridge leading to the plant.

One man, starting to cross the bridge, was pushed back by state police. The crowd wavered a moment, then rushed the thoroughfare. The police met the advance with freely swinging night sticks but were forced to retreat before far superior numbers and resort to tear gas bombs.

Use Bombs and Guns.

The bombs again checked the mob's advance, but another series of rushes finally brought volleys from riot guns and heavy service revolvers. Five strikers and sympathizers went down wounded with buckshot, while Aram Auclair, 18, of Woonsocket, a nephew of Mayor Soucy of that city, was struck in the face by a revolver bullet fired over the heads of the crowd. Auclair was in a crowd of spectators on a small hill overlooking the scene of battle.

The police suffered three casualties. Deputy Sheriff Percy Butler, field of Providence was struck on the nose by a charge of buckshot, believed to have been fired by "snipers" from behind the advancing crowd. Lieutenant John Baird, of the state police, was struck in the foot by a flying stone and one of his troopers was cut about the face and held by similar missiles.

Charges by strike leaders that the state police fired without provocation and deliberately incited the crowd to riot were flatly denied by Colonel Chafe, commander of the state police today. He pointed out that his men retreated from the bridge only because he wanted to use riot guns at a range that would not result in fatalities. His men fired because clubs had proved useless, he declared, and the crowd was not warned because there was neither time nor opportunity to read the riot act.

MEXICO HAS NOTHING TO DO WITH LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Mexico City, Sept. 1 (AP).—The Mexican government has replied officially to Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the League of Nations in Geneva, who recently forwarded to Mexico a note of protest by Nicaragua over an alleged free booting expedition carried out by an auxiliary Mexican warship to aid the revolutionaries overthrow the Nicaraguan government.

The reply reiterates the recent announcement by Aaron Saenz, the foreign minister, that Mexico has nothing to do with the League of Nations and the League of Nations, nothing to do with Mexico. Mexico's reply was sent by Senor Saenz under instructions from President Calles. It said: "I have the honor, referring to yours of the 27th, to inform you that Mexico has no connection whatever with the League of Nations and to thank you for your attention."

START EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN TO SAVE SCHOOL CHILDREN

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—An international North American educational campaign to save 10,000 school children annually from death by diphtheria was under way today, directed by the American Health Association.

Health officers of Canada, the United States and Mexico have joined forces to meet the annual autumn onslaught of the disease, which claims its greatest toll with the opening of schools in September and October.

Registration is urged as supplementary to first application, and the campaign is in part on a second application.

Diphtheria can be wiped from the face of the earth, declared Dr. S. J. Crumley, general secretary of the American Health Association, "if every child is immunized."

DEATH IN NEW YORK FIRE

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—Six Negroes were burned to death and three others—two women and a child—were seriously injured in a fire that swept through the five-story tenement at 429 St. Nicholas avenue early today.

Five of the bodies, most of them burned beyond recognition, were recovered. Another body is known to be in the ruins on one of the upper floors.

Building Plans Must Have O. K. Of Labor Dept.

Plans of Buildings For Mercantile Purposes Must Be Filed With State Department—Plans Submitted To Department During August.

Albany, Sept. 1.—Inspectors in the Department of Labor are finding that many buildings erected for mercantile purposes are being built without complying with the State Laws as a result of which owners of these properties are often compelled to unnecessarily expend large amounts in making their buildings comply. The cause of this, according to a statement issued today by State Industrial Commissioner James A. Hamilton, is the failure of prospective builders to first file their plans with the State Department.

"The Labor Laws require that plans for buildings to be used for factories as well as for mercantile establishments must be filed with the Labor Department's Engineering Division and construction work may be started only after the plans have been approved. These plans relate not only to proposed buildings, but to existing buildings to which extensive alterations or additions are to be made. It seems to be quite well understood that factory buildings must be filed with the Department, but many owners and builders seem to think that approval of the plans for a mercantile building by local authorities is sufficient. Such is not the case. Local building authorities have jurisdiction over local requirements, but not over the requirements of the State Labor Department."

"It has come to our attention more forcefully of late that there are many mercantile establishments, recently constructed, that are not in accordance with the state requirements. This has been found by our inspectors. The reason as stated above is that owners have gone on and put up their buildings without having their plans approved by the Labor Department. Thereafter, when the building is inspected, they are required to make changes that very often entail large expenditures that could have been avoided had the plans been first submitted to the Department's Engineering Division at the Capitol, Albany."

Commissioner Hamilton gave some interesting figures on the work of the Engineering Division for the month of August. There were eighty-eight plans submitted to the Division representing proposed expenditures on factories, mercantile buildings and places of public assembly of over $1,800,000. Of these totals, there were plans for 31 new mercantile buildings to cost $483,843, four new factory buildings to cost $342,356 and six new places of public assembly to cost $251,000. This made a total of $1,548,199 in new buildings, the balance being made up of alterations and extensions.

During the month the Division examined a total of 107 plans of all kinds, of which 65 were approved, 22 were disapproved, eight were amended and 12 were sent to the Industrial Board upon applications for variations from the specific requirements of the law and code.

The plans that were submitted during August were distributed by counties as follows:

REMEMBER OF OLIVE WILL BOLD OLD BROWN DAY

If weather conditions are good on Labor Day, September 6, a record crowd is expected at the Old Brown Day of the town of Olive people at Lambert's Grove, Belvidere. The road to the grove has been placed in shape for traffic and the grove was never in better condition for the time. A number of old time residents of Olive, who by reason of the taking over of the farms for the New York water supply, were compelled to leave the scenes of their younger days, will be on hand to talk of the old times with former friends.

Carl Corn Eating Tournament Held

Voracious Visitors Guests at Willow Tea Room Outcast for Championship of Four Towns, View Beauties of Catskills and Learn What a Smoke House Is.

The first annual corn eating tournament for the championship of Kingston, Woodstock, Shandaken and Troy was held Tuesday evening at the Willow Tea Room at Willow under the felicitous auspices of Herbert Carl, who since becoming a hotel magnate has branched out into co-related side lines. After various preliminary unofficial elimination contests Mr. Carl selected as his guests for the final L. O. Terrell of Troy, Frank R. Powley, John H.
Gregory, Louis S. Coe, George A.
Wartman, W. A. Carl, E. E. Fessen-den, Arthur Wicks and Arthur Burns. In providing the complete facilities Mr. Carl considered his duty done and refrained from considering his own score in the contest. But for this act of abnegation there might have been another tale to tell. As it was, the championship was won by Arthur Burns with John Gregory a close second, Mr. Wartman a poor third and Frank R. Powley and L. O. Terrell coming in for honorable mention.

In addition to the corn, home grown golden bantam, the product of a portion of the broad acres of Carl's Mountain Gables, there was native chicken and all the fixings including jelly made from grapes grown in Mr. Carl's vineyard. If the dinner was a fair sample of Willow Tea Room catering, and the experienced said it was, the new road from Bearville to Willow will soon be worn out by hungry pilgrims.
Mr. Carl has no fear of an early frost nipping the corn crop, for after this invasion of and devastation by voracious visitors there isn't much corn left to be nipped.

Before the dinner the guests were shown over the estate by the lord of the manor and permitted to pick out the summer home site each intends to purchase if Carl's Mountain Gables is ever opened to settlement.
Great interest was shown in a small stone building with a pipe projecting from it and hope rose high in the hearts of the visitors until they were told by Mr. Carl, corroborated by two other expert and truthful antiquarians, that it was a smoke house. To several of the visitors it had to be explained that a smoke house is neither a building where Scotch is placed in order to acquire its smoky flavor, nor a place set apart for the smoking of Camels and Pride of Hibernia. On the whole, the evening had great educational value and for this and for the dinner the guests formally and informally conveyed to Mr. Carl their deep appreciation of favors received and their lively hope of similar favors to come.

FISH DISHES

As canned fish is available in any climate or market, one may have fish at any season or in any locality.
The fresh fish are so much more appetizing that we enjoy them whenever available.

A firm-fleshed
fish, not too fat, like lake trout or pike, is good when boiled. Clean and wrap in a cheesecloth, drop in salted acidulated water and cook until the fish leaves the bones. Drain and serve with parsley butter, lemon butter, maître d'hôtel butter or hollandaise sauce.

A stuffed and baked fish is another good way of serving them. Make the stuffing as usual, adding onion and parsley for seasoning.
Molled Fish Salad.—Take one-half pound of tuna fish or salmon. Mix with one cupful of diced celery, one tablespoonful of chopped green pepper, two tablespoonfuls of chopped olives and three-fourths of a cupful of salad dressing. Add two tablespoonfuls of vinegar and season with salt and pepper. Soak two tablespoonfuls of gelatin in one-fourth of a cupful of cold water for five minutes.
Dissolve by placing over hot water, then stir into the fish mixture. Turn two small molds rimmed with cold water, and set away to chill. Serve on lettuce or water cress and garnish with celery and strips of green paper.

Fish Cakes.—Mix three table-spoonfuls of butter, add one-half tablespoonful of finely chopped onion and two tablespoonfuls of finely chopped potatoes. Cook slowly for five minutes, stirring constantly. Add one-third of a cupful of flour, and when well mixed stir in one-half cupful each of milk and cream. Cook until thick and thick; add two cupfuls of sliced fish, salt and pepper to taste. Shape into cylinders, lay over egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat. Drain on salt paper and serve with a good sauce.

Big Increase in License Plates

Motor Vehicle Bureau Issued 18,902 Plates For Passenger Cars and 5,754 For Commercial Cars
Up to August 31.

Up to August 31 this year there were issued by Second Deputy County Clerk H. Clinton Finger, at the Ulster county motor vehicle bureau on Fair street, 13,902 license plates for 1926 passenger cars, being an increase of 964 over the number issued up to the same date for 1925. The number last year for the same period was 12,938. The number of 1926 license plates for commercial cars issued up to and including August 31 was 3,754, this being an increase of 241 over 1925, when the total was 3,513. From July 1 to and including August 31
the number of operators' licenses issued was 12,565, being an increase of 393 over the same period in 1925, when the total was 12,172. The local bureau has been a very busy place. Road tests are given each Tuesday and Friday by inspectors from the State Automobile Bureau from 9 to 12 a. m.

Heretofore it has been the custom to issue an operator's license to applicants between the ages of 18 and 21 on presentation of an affidavit giving the date of birth. By a new ruling made in August it is now necessary for an applicant between the above ages to present either a birth certificate, a baptismal certificate or school certificate.

If the applicant says that he can not read but does understand and speak English, the application is referred to the inspector who will examine the applicant by taking him out on the streets and highways. If the applicant is able to read the ordinary traffic signs and possesses the faculty or ability to drive a motor vehicle properly, a license shall be issued to him. Otherwise, the application shall be rejected.

If the applicant says he can read and understand English but cannot speak it, the issuing officer shall subject him to an examination and see if he can speak broken English and test his ability to read English and understand it. If it develops that the applicant cannot speak even broken English, or that he is unable to read the ordinary traffic signs his application shall be referred to the inspector, and if satisfactory road tests are passed he shall have a license issued to him.

THE HINDU "PROPHET."

Jiddu Krishnamurti, the "new Messiah" as he has been profanely called, does not appear to be as unblushingly extravagant a pretender as one might expect. The unblushing extravagance would seem to be among the people who have taken him up. Why did a part of Parisian society turn out to listen to him as to a prophet? Why—if it is true—did people "of thirty nations" gather to "do him homage" at the feudal Dutch castle of Eerde? Why was a stadium built for him on the shore of Sidney Bay, Australia, where greater numbers still congregated to "do him reverence"? Why—if it is true—were his "teachings" translated into "twenty-seven" languages? Perhaps Jiddu, the nice-looking Hindu youth knows much less about all this than the people who pitched upon him as a means to an end, and undoubtedly less than his industrious publicity agents. We can well believe that he is a young Hindu of aristocratic family and education, with a leaning toward asceticism and a tendency to rebuke the carnal-minded, but if that is all he is only one of many in mysterious, meditative India.

But the description of his arrival in America does not suggest even asceticism. We read that he wore flannel trousers and a blue serge coat, that he talked of Lenglen-Wills tennis with an Oxford acquaintance with British slang, and that he confided to a reporter that he was "just an ordinary fellow." His American admirers say that his coming will mean the rise of a new civilization, but Jiddu himself said that one of his chief objects in coming was to see a World's Series baseball game. Forced to speak of more serious or alarming matters such as jazz, lipsticks and the Charleston, young Jiddu said: "Happiness is being sought in the material, but it can be found only in the spiritual," which is so obvious that even "an ordinary fellow" of some intelligence might have said it.

NEW YORK DISSECTED.

Senator Borah says New York is so "provincial," so absorbed in itself, that it "never knows what the country thinks." This is old stuff. More entertaining because new is the comment of two visiting British editors. According to one of these, just called for home, New York is the noisiest and worst-mannered city on earth; even Chicago is to be preferred. "In Chicago they may murder you, but they don't grate on you," New York is a victim of "dollar dyspepsia." Its men fly around like crows, saving time by rushing about in the subway, only to waste it in "masculine beauty parlors." This London editor's conclusion is that "people have the sort of city they deserve; and New York citizens deserve New York." The other British editor quite overlooked the rush and hustle, and characterized New York as a city of leisure, wasting even more time than the slumbering cities of the Far East. And he saw only one real smile in the course of two whole weeks. As he attributed this widespread melancholy to the myriad of straw hats, it is to be presumed that an Englishman can be made merry in hot weather only by wearing a heavy black "topper" or high hat, while an American could only "grin and bear it" at the best.

The whimsical comments of these British editors may be taken literally by their readers at home, but they will be understood and properly discounted in American newspaper offices. What the weary journalist is most weary of is the obvious, and his secret approach to a smile of gratification is when he finds himself saying something different, something he is fairly well satisfied has not been said before.

These observations to speak of coming by women as a recent development will be somewhat surprised to find the following in a "25 Years Ago Today" column: "The custom of smoking cigarettes on the beach at Atlantic City was no longer entirely confined to young men and young women were smoking the provocative. It was a daily sight to see scores of women quietly puffing away in semi-secluded spots not far removed from the water's edge."

Guests at a recent royal garden party in London noted "with sorrow" that few of the women seemed to have new dresses, few of the men wore white waistcoats or gloves, and there were not many tall grey hats or many white spats. Yet, in spite of the hard times, the elect present probably got about as much fun out of it as usual, for the only real "fun" of any account consists in being numbered among the elect.

Those wonderful British gooseberries weighing an ounce to an ounce and three-quarters, tend to take the shine off our relatively small American variety, but the flavor is the main thing and comparison in this particular would be more to the point. On this side of the ocean extra bigness in fruit has not been found to be a real asset.

That Body of Yours

WHY THE LIFE SPAN IS LENGTHENED.

Last year physicians in the United States and Canada experimented with insulin in that terrible condition, malnutrition, that carries off so many children during the first year of life.

In a total of twenty-three cases, 50 per cent showed a definite increase in weight from the administration of the insulin, given with a sugar or glucose solution. The sugar gave heat and energy to the little wasting child, and the insulin enabled the blood to hold the extra amount of sugar.

Now two New York physicians report their experience with twenty-seven cases of malnourished infants. Of these seventeen were distinctly successful, five were indifferent, four were partly helped, and one died. You see from time to time statistics which show that the average length of life has been greatly extended in the last fifty years. This means that of a hundred children born on a certain day, that more of them will reach middle and old age than at any other time in history. It is known now how to combat tuberculosis, yellow fever, malaria, typhoid fever, smallpox, and other ailments, and this has much to do with establishing this better life record, but the main reason for this extension of life is because more babies are saved than before. The time was when perhaps only one out of every two children survived the first year, whereas now about four out of five reach their second year.

Why? Because it was this dread ailment malnutrition that carried so many off previously, and now by scientific feeding they are able to survive this hard first year.

But notwithstanding all care and skill there are always cases that do not respond to this scientific feeding. It would appear that their systems will just not "take hold" or root, and it is in these severe cases that insulin holds out hope in such a large percentage of cases. And so when we read that 50 per cent of the cases in one experiment and nearly 75 per cent in a later one, the treatment by insulin was "distinctly successful" we have a right to hope for even greater things.

SIMPLICITY TO MARK RITES FOR VALENTINO

New York, Sept. 1 (AP).—Simplicity is the keynote of arrangements for shipment of Rudolph Valentino's body to Hollywood tomorrow and of funeral services to be repeated so that his brother, Alberto Guglielmi, might attend them after his arrival on the liner Homeric late today.

"There will be none of the show which disgusted me early last week," said S. George Ullman, the dead screen star's manager, yesterday. "The body will be taken west in the most simple and dignified manner possible."

Mr. Ullman expressed surprise when informed that announcement had been made of the second service tomorrow at 11 a. m. in the Catholic Church of the Sacred Heart. He said he had not expected an announcement "on account of the mob."

He has asked for a police detail to guard the church against disorders that occurred in front of an undertaker's establishment on upper Broadway when the body was on public view.

Today's Story in New York History

By Frederic A. Godcharles.
(Copyright, 1926, by the Author)

Champlain Accompanied Huron on Expedition Against Iroquois, Which Started September 1, 1615.

In the year 1615, there dwelt on the southeastern shore of Lake Huron a nation of Indians who were called in their own language "Wyandot," and by the French "Huron."

There is no record of their having been visited by the white man prior to the above date.

In the same year, the Sieur de Champlain, the father of French colonization in America, who had entered the St. Lawrence in 1603 and founded Quebec five years later, ascended the river Ottawa as far as the Huron country—Le Caron having preceded him by a few days only.

The Huron and their Algonquin allies who dwelt on the Ottawa, being at that time engaged in a sanguinary war with the confederated Iroquoian tribes south of Lake Ontario, persuaded Champlain to join them in an expedition which they were projecting into the territory of their enemy.

The combined forces set out from Callagane, the chief town of the Huron, on September 1, 1615. Crossing Lake Simcoe in their bark canoes, they made a short portage, descended the Trent River into Lake Ontario, which Champlain named Lac St. Louis. Passing from island to island in the group which lies in the eastern extremity of that lake, they safely reached its southern shore, and landed in the present State of New York. Concealing their canoes in the adjacent woods, the war party pressed onward overland to the Indian post on the shore of Onondaga Lake.

It was at the time of the maize harvest, and the Iroquois were attacked in the fields. They retired to their town, which was fortified with four rows of palisades. On the inside of these were galleries furnished with stones and other missiles, and a supply of water to extinguish a fire, if kindled beneath these wooden walls.

Champlain had constructed a wooden tower which was dragged near the palisades, and from the top of which his marksmen swept the galleries filled with the naked Iroquois. But the Huron were rather insubordinate and he could not control this great body of warriors. In their furious and tumultuous assault upon the palisades they were thrown back in confusion, and could not be induced to repeat the onset, but resolved to retreat. Champlain, wounded in the leg, was compelled to acquiesce, and returned to Quebec, where he arrived after a year's absence.

On September 8, 1615, when Champlain was on his march with the Huron, Etienne Brule, a faithful soldier with Champlain, set out with a party of twelve Huron from Upper Canada for the town of Carantouan on the Susquehanna River, to obtain their cooperation against the common enemy.

Brule, with his little party, crossed from Lake Ontario to the Susquehanna, defeating on the way a war-party of Iroquois, and entered Carantouan in triumph.

Here Brule obtained a force of 500 warriors who set out to join Champlain and the Huron; but they proceeded too slowly, and upon reaching the Iroquoian town found that Champlain had already attacked it with his force, had failed, and had returned to Canada.

Brule and his allies returned to Carantouan, and here he remained for the rest of the autumn. While thus unoccupied Brule explored the neighborhood of Onondaga, N. Y., October, 1615, he descended that river to at least the present Pennsylvania-Maryland boundary. This is evidenced by the report of his journey, when he described his course "along the river as far as the sea, and to the islands and lands near them, which are inhabited by various tribes and large numbers of savages, who are well disposed and love the French above all nations. But those who know the Dutch complain severely of them, since they treat them roughly." This was the first actual exploration of the Susquehanna River for its entire length.

Upon his return, his party was attacked and scattered by the Iroquois, and Brule himself made a prisoner. He was terribly mutilated but managed to escape death, and after more than a year reached the Huron region where he found Champlain and made his report to him.

Sagard says Brule deserted the French and went over to the English; that he was sent by the latter to treat with the Huron, in 1622, when his traitorous conduct so provoked the Huron that they put him to death and devoured him.

Sociable in Food Hunt
English scientists insist the eels are the only residents of the water which can hunt their food in company, working in a pack as wolves do and rushing up a stream, eating all they meet or find, flesh, fowl or insect, devouring spaw and nosing out the small fry from their hiding places under the rocks and weeds along the banks.
It has become a common expression among the scientists to speak of the eels as the wolves of the stream, counting them even worse than the pike, that dashing, big eater of the waters, tigerish in ferocity and apparently never full of food. These learned writers declare they have known a large number of eels to attack a victim in mass formation, when one of their number would be unable to be master of the situation.

Blood Relationship
The eugenic record office of the Carnegie Institution says that brothers and sisters are more closely related than father and son or mother and son. Biologically, a father and son have one-half common blood, while a brother and sister have all common blood. One contains with his half-brother the same amount of common blood that he contains with his father.

A Wet Ordination
In 1758 the ordination of a minister in the town of Newry, Mass., was not a dry affair, judging from these items in an old bill of expenses. "Thirty bowls of punch before going to church; ten bottles of wine, before attending meeting; forty-four bowls of punch, twenty-eight bottles of wine, eight bowls of brandy and some cherry rum, while at dinner." And six persons drunk tea.

Advertisement Advertising To Advertisers For Advertisements

That seems complicated, but it is simple.
Exhibitors at the Kingston Exposition, September 10-18, show goods to advertise them.
To get folks to look at these exhibits they will advertise in The Freeman.
To have these advertisements published, the copy must be in The Freeman office much earlier than usual—the earlier the better.
The Freeman cannot maintain a force of men large enough to take care of extraordinary business on short notice.
The only way such a force could be paid while idle more than half the time, would be by raising advertising rates at least 50 per cent.
So it is to the direct interest of advertisers to get copy in early, in order that compositors and machines may have a steady flow of work.
That is the thing this advertisement is urging advertisers to do.
So it is an Advertisement Advertising to Advertisers for Advertisements.

New Method Eradicates Wrinkles Like Magic

It has been found that a simple tarsoot mixture, spread over the entire face, sets almost magically upon even the deepest wrinkles and crowfeet. It produces the natural rejuvenating effect of massage, only to a more marked degree. The danger of loosening the skin and underlying tissues, are so invigorated they become much firmer, and the skin's texture is so changed it again assumes its original clear, smooth, healthy appearance.

Eleanor Gunn On Fashions

Large Industries look into the Style Situation, Making for Grace and Movement—and Outlook, in Long, Fluid Effects, is an Aftermath.

Like most things which are extreme, both fringe and ostrich are inclined to appeal to the wrong type. In spite of this handicap, they have both been received in critical circles and continue to be important for fall. Fringe, like the poor, we have more or less always with us. Ostrich is a less constant friend. For millinery, it has long ceased to exist, but for evening gowns and fur-bellows—for negligees, too—it has taken on a most amazing importance.

The ostrich boa seemed in danger of being the prerogative of the Royal Family only, but it has suddenly become something of a fad in Paris. It Fullness above the Waist is Offset by a snug Girdle About the Hips, and Matching Long Silk Fringe Creates the Effect of an Unseen Hem-Line.

Follows rather naturally that evening wraps omit fur. Collars have been getting narrower and narrower, and now they are becoming feathered. A shoulder sower of soft, uncurled ostrich gives something of an air to a chiffon frock, and chiffon frocks in all shades of the rainbow-plus go merrily on their way with no thought of being ousted by the more formal materials, such as velvet, now under discussion for winter.

The beaded dress absolutely refuses to be frowned down. Designers showed not only determination but imagination, and continued to put forth new versions of the beaded dress, with the result that women continue to wear beads.

The Zither
This instrument is really a combination of the harp and guitar. The harmonies of the harp are produced from it, and it has the dulcine tones peculiar to both instruments. The number of strings varies, some others having as many as thirty. It is played either with the fingers or with a small bow with one of the thumb of the performer.

West Point Cadets Ready for Work

Intensive Work at Military Academy Begins Thursday—Drills Not the Principal Part of Cadets' Training. Although it is Part Which Public Witness.

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 1.—The eleven hundred and fifty cadets of the Military Academy begin their year's intensive work tomorrow. This work includes the three main branches of the West Point curriculum—the academic work, the military training, and fall intramural athletic activity. West Point is probably the only school in the country that begins its academic work as early as September 1st.

The military training and intramural athletics alternate daily. Military drills and instruction are taken up in accordance with a pre-arranged schedule, which provides for progressive training for Cadets of each class. For the Cadets of the first class, for the period September 1st, to December 23rd, military instruction provides for riding, infantry drill, hippology, military hygiene, and various professional lectures, including several on the air service. The second class takes up infantry drill and riding. The third class receives training in the infantry (including training regulations) and coast artillery. The fourth class has instruction in infantry drill, field artillery drill, rifle marksmanship, and infantry weapons, which include machine guns, trench mortars and one-pounders.

Throughout this period wherever possible and whenever practicable military drills are held out of doors. Riding is held in the riding hall, as is the study of hippology. Both field artillery and coast artillery drills consist largely of calculating firing data.

Work at Athletics.

The fall intramural work consists of the following athletics: Football, basketball, lacrosse, swimming, tennis, golf, fencing, polo and gymnastics. For the Plebes most of these athletics are a continuation of the summer work that they have just completed. For the upper classes they represent a continuation of their previous work in this type of physical training. Intramural athletics as a whole form a very considerable part of the entire physical and athletic training of the Corps of Cadets. All Cadets get some instruction in each of the sports mentioned. Regular Army officers (generally with the sports concerned) are in charge, with two to six of the Cadets of the upper classes as assistant instructors. For these intramural athletics there are available three football fields, three basketball courts, two soccer fields, seven tennis courts, one-quarter mile track with a two hundred and twenty yard straightaway, a nine hole golf course, a regulation fencing room in the gymnasium, and a riding hall for polo. For each sport Cadets wear the appropriate athletic uniform.

The Academic Work.

The third phase of Cadet training, which runs of course throughout the year, is the academic work. This, as probably everyone knows, is the hardest part of the Cadets' career here at the Academy. For the first half of the year the first class (seniors) take up mechanical engineering, military art, ordnance and gunnery, study of government, law, tactics, and military hygiene. The second class in their study of natural and experimental philosophy take up chiefly during the first term general physics. They also study general chemistry and heat. They have laboratory periods in each of the foregoing. Spanish and drawing complete their academic work. The third class continue their mathematics, French and English. In addition they take up History and drawing. The fourth class (Plebes) commence their academic work with mathematics, French and English.

The academic day runs from 7:55 a. m. to 11:55 a. m. and from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m. Military exercises take place from 3:15 p. m. to 4:15 p. m. Intramural athletics run from 4:15 to 4:25 p. m. During September parades are held daily. On Wednesday at 4:25 p. m. a Sunday review is held at 1:10 p. m. Sunday parade and formal guard mounting are held commencing at 4:45 p. m.
